A complete denture (also known as a full denture, false teeth or plate) is a removable appliance used when all teeth within a jaw have been lost and need to be prosthetically replaced. In contrast to a partial denture, a complete denture is constructed when there are no more teeth left in an arch, hence it is an exclusively tissue-supported prosthesis.

When a complete denture is applied to only one of the jaws in the mouth, it is called a SCD. SCD may be opposing a natural dentition, a fixed partial denture, an existing partial denture, and a present complete denture. During the fabrication of SCD, each of the opposing conditions has to overcome different challenges.
