In IT, context awareness describes the ability of hardware components and IT systems to respond to user requests based on information about their environment or the context of operations. This term has been specifically applied to the world of mobile applications to describe apps that use geolocational data to create context-aware user services.

What is Context Awareness? - Definition from Techopedia

Design an explicit and unified learning context model to describe and formalize various learner contexts in three layers, which are personal-level, group-level and class-level learning contexts respectively. 4. Define a set of operations on user profile by giving a specific context so that context-aware learning services are facilitated. 5.

Context awareness is a property of mobile devices that is defined complementarily to location awareness. Whereas location may determine how certain processes around a contributing device operate, context may be applied more flexibly with mobile users, especially with users of smart phones. Context awareness originated as a term from ubiquitous computing or as so-called pervasive computing which sought to deal with linking changes in the environment with computer systems, which are otherwise stat

Context aware E-Learning systems provide learning content according to a learner ' s context. In the existing context aware E-Learning systems there is no standardized set of context parameters considered and content is adapted based on a randomly considered set of parameters. In this work, a standardization of context model for context aware E-learning has been proposed.
