Schnabel defines "mission" or "missions" as "the activity of a community of faith" that distinguishes itself from its environment in terms of both religious belief (theology) and social behavior (ethics), is convinced of the truth claims of its faith; and actively works to win other people to the content of faith and the way of life of whose truth and necessity the members of that community are convinced.

Paul's Missionary Strategies and Methods

Finally, Paul sought to work in new areas. he did not wish to work in another man's territory (Romans 15:21-22). Nor did he 'steal sheep' from established churches, as has sadly gone on throughout history. The important thing to see in Paul's principles of mission is not his organisational strategy. Far more important was the leading of the Holy Spirit that he knew (Acts 16:6-10) and the quality of his lifestyle.

Paul's Purpose in Mission Mission strategy is generally determined by the objectives we set and our ultimate purpose. 12 Paul had a definite aim in his mission and thus he was enabled to set out strategies that will fulfil that aim. He outlines his purpose in Romans 15:15-16 as to offer

The Strategies of Paul the Missionary

In Paul's perspective the Christian is not only to believe in and be transformed by the act of God through the crucified and risen Christ but also to become part of a community that itself embodies and enacts that saving mission to the world. As Gorman ably demonstrates, mission is integral to Paul's vision of the Christian life." Christian Century of mission as, "concerned with the basic presuppositions and underlying principles which determine, from the standpoint of Christian faith, the motives, methods, strategy and goals of the Christian world mission" (Neil, Anderson and Goodwin, edits: 1971:594). Theology of mission is a multi- and interdisciplinary enterprise.

"What Is Theology of Mission"

Stott observes that this romantic image of mission implies that the primary, if not exclusive, function of mission is evangelism. However, in the past several decades an alternative view has held that mission should be defined solely as engaging in what is today commonly referred to as social justice – redressing economic disparity, oppression, racial inequality, and other social ills.

What Is Christian Mission in Today's World?

The Gentile mission and St. Paul. Saul, or St. Paul (as he was later called), was a Pharisee who persecuted the primitive church. Born at Tarsus (Asia Minor), he had come to Jerusalem as a student of the famous rabbi Gamaliel and had harried a Christian group called by Luke the "Hellenists," who were led by St. Stephen (the first Christian martyr) and who regarded Jesus as a spiritual reformer sent to purge the corrupt worship of Jerusalem.

The Goal of Missions and the Work of Missionaries

The new missionary faith made its first major transition as it emerged from Palestine and spread throughout the Mediterranean world. The apostle Paul became the missionary to the Gentile world. With help from St. Barnabas and a local network of coworkers, many of them women, he evangelized Asia Minor and southern Greece and eventually reached Rome.

Christianity - The history of Christian missions | Britannica

Answer: Christian missions is following Christ's call: sharing the gospel with the lost world through God's wisdom and strength. Christian missions is obeying Christ. After Christ's death and resurrection, the Lord commanded the disciples to share the gospel, the message of His redemption: "Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you.

What is Christian missions? | GotQuestions.org

Mission is at the heart of the message of the Bible, though the actual word "mission" occurs sparingly in English Bibles. The word comes from the Latin verb mitto (noun missio), which parallels the Greek word apostellō, meaning "to send." It refers to God sending people to announce his work of judgment and redemption on earth.
